MY DOG IS MY Valentine
BONE

Hey everyone

Can you possibly believe that it's almost February and what does that mean it's time for our next correction match which is February 4 so don't forget to contact Gina for volunteering for the match for or for judging or we just would love to see you come and train your dogs.

After a little bit of a few less students in the last rotation our classes are pretty darn full and that's exciting. Do you know someone who might be more interested in learning about doing more with her dogs? It doesn't matter what it is. Please just reach out and let them know that Glenbard can help.

Over all these years of working my dogs, I have found that volunteering in anyway whether if he stewing or instructing, I have found that it has always enhanced my training with my own dogs. If you would be interested in learning how to become an instructor or take those next steps in your obedience career please make sure you reach out to myself or any of our instructors.

Upcoming events will also be our annual award banquet- date to be determined. Look for more information soon. Please make sure you consider getting your award forms in to Candy, Ellis and Pat Senne. See ya ring side!

Windy's Mom Dats it Takes a Village... Raising Rodger

It takes a village - in Rodger's case, I have to believe that it is very true.

For those who you do not know, Shawn rescued what he thought was a blue heeler. He wanted a dog who looked a lot like Blue so he picked Roger for the black mask and his speckled look all in black and white, but it doesn't take much to see the Roger is not a blue heeler. He's ginormous and he doesn't act like a healer, and Shawn said he was going to train Roger and I think everyone who comes to club on Monday and Tuesday nights can see that well... I'm Rodger's mom!

Rodger has some challenges as many rescue dogs do as they don't have the benefit of being nurtured by a good breeder and taken care of from the minute they are whelped to the minute they are weaned and going onto their families. We can only guess what Rodger has been through - thank goodness it was only the first perhaps 12 weeks or so of his life that was less than ideal but with that, Roger has a challenge, of course where he is frightened of people and this is where our village comes in. Everyone is so helpful to help Roger through his journey to be able to be socialized and approached by people so that he will not be afraid and that he will be able to reach great things in the dog world.

Everyone has been so kind to approach him quietly offer him or treat and maybe perhaps not even look at him, enabling him to approach a human on his terms . Through everyone's gentle guidance , Roger can join in on a conversation with a group of people and their dogs. He's able to do a perfect stand for exam with our Ed Gigenheimer, and he reached a mile stone with Candy Ellis the other day at Fox Valley as he was able to complete a novice run through and maybe perhaps not with a full stand for exam but a gentle pat on the head from Candy, which is absolutely massive! Rodger sends his personal thanks to Candy for her never-ending patience and kindness towards him

Rodger is making such progress - and to Glenbard, we offer many thanks!
